WORLD LIST OF CURRENT BEEKEEPING JOURNALS

EVA CRANE

Bee Research Association, Woodside House, Chalfont Heights, Gerrards Cross, Bucks., England

INTRODUCTION

The first edition of this World List was issued in 1955 as a separate Bee Research Association pamphlet (BRA 130). Since then a number of new beekeeping periodicals have appeared, and some have ceased publication; the total number listed here is 126. The widespread demand for a new edition has led to the decision to publish it in Bee World, so that it is readily and permanently available; it is also being reprinted as a separate pamphlet, to be sold at 5/- or 75 cents post free.

This list is to some extent selective: where only one beekeeping journal is published in a country, it is included here whatever its standard; but where one or more national journals exist, small local ones are usually omitted—unless for instance they have been published for many years but have now fallen upon hard times. A few journals have come into being and died again since the first edition, and these are included for completeness; the shortness of their lives reflects political or other difficulties which harass beekeeping as well as other spheres of activity. Year books and annual reports are excluded.

Some earlier lists of beekeeping journals of the world are cited below; others can be found in catalogues of beekeeping libraries, such as that of the Miller Library at Madison, U.S.A.

BEE WORLD (1938) Bee periodicals of the world Bee World 19(10) : 111–116

— (1954) Förteckning över bitidskrifter Uppsala : Kungl. Lantbruks-högskolans Bibliotek

MILUM, V. G. (1954) Information on beekeeping journals unpublished : 12 pages

Almost all journals in the present list are currently received by the Bee Research Association. Details of any journals omitted from this list, or of errors in it, will be most gratefully received.

LIST OF JOURNALS

The order of entries is: title, language, publisher, subscription address, editor; age of journal; frequency of publication, subscription (inland and foreign); standard abbreviation; note about contents if not general beekeeping. The standard abbreviation is based on the system used in the World list of scientific periodicals (1952). Square brackets are used for titles of journals not printed in the Latin alphabet, e.g. [Pchelovodstvo]. Reference numbers A1, A2, . . . are used for convenience in indexing; the index under country is on page 212.
